

RIJKSMUSEUM

RESEARCH AT THE RIJKSMUSEUM

At Research Services, we are committed to making our collections and data accessible to as many people as possible. We train museum researchers in the optimal management of research data, organise introductions for students to show them our research facilities, we work to improve the terms and vocabulary used in our databases and much more! Read all about the latest developments and news below.

VAN HET RIJKSMUSEUM

Eerste Jaargang - 1953 - Nummers 1 en 2

RIJKSMUSEUM BULLETIN

All volumes of the Rijksmuseum Bulletin are now fully available online via open access. Spanning 75 years of research, the collection includes no fewer than 125 issues, with 16 in English and 55 in Dutch. Take a look at our website to discover the full collection.

Read more

COLLECTIONS UNAVAILABLE

Between early March and late May 2025, parts of the Rijksmuseum's library collections will be temporarily unavailable due to renovation works.

Read on

LINKED ART 1.0

The Rijksmuseum celebrates the launch of Linked Art 1.0, a Linked Open Usable Data specification designed in collaboration with museums worldwide. This new standard enables museums, like the Rijksmuseum, to improve the accessibility and interoperability of their collections, as well as information about the objects. A valuable step forward in making museum collections more accessible and fostering innovative research into cultural heritage.

Read more

RIJKSMUSEUM

Rijksmuseum Research Services | studiezaal@rijksmuseum.nl

Founder

Main sponsors

